Dad's Day and Homecoming Celebration Successful From Every Angle

Gridiron Victory Sweet to Returning Grads

Hundreds of visitors began arriving in Athens on Friday, October 22, for the annual Homecoming and Dad's Day festivities of the following day. By noon of Saturday the second largest crowd in the history of athletic events had taken possession of the business and central section of the city causing a congestion of traffic which is unusual to the local streets. The crowd of 4,000 at Ohio Field for the game has been exceeded but once—last year—when 4,500 people were present at the Ohio Wesleyan-Ohio University game.

Early arrivals were entertained at the "thuse" meeting held Friday evening in Ewing Hall and at the Carnival of the Woman's Athletic Association held in the Women's Gym on the same night.

Saturday morning was given over to informal receptions and get-togethers. Fraternity groups entertained their visiting members around the boards of their own clubs while the local restaurants were swamped with out-of-town alumni and mothers and dads. Many students were faced with the problem of finding sleeping quarters for unexpected guests.

The first big event of the day was the football game at Ohio Field which got under way at exactly two o'clock. The game was between the University of Cincinnati and Ohio University and was the eleventh to be played by teams representing these schools since 1913. Including the 1926 victory the count stands at six victories to four in favor of the Green and White.

With a smashing, whirling attack that netted 29 first downs to Cincy's 5, the Bobcats defeated the Bearcats 38 to 7 and planted themselves, for the time being, at the top of the Buckeye Athletic Association ladder with a record of two victories and no defeats. The Ohio backs mixed aerial plays with their running attack, and circled the Cincinnati ends or went through tackles for long gains. Many were reminded of the last game of the season last year when Wittenberg fell victim of just such an offensive and was defeated, 27 to 0.

After the game the Ohio and Cincinnati bands paraded through the downtown streets, followed by throngs of the supporters of each team. The Green and White band with their striking uniforms and the clever drum-major with his big shako won the plaudits of the spectators both on the field and on the street.

This year's sixty-piece band is without doubt the finest Ohio has ever had.

The fraternity and business houses were decorated in honor of the visitors. The decorations ranged from paper streamers to the most elaborate of suspended signs and banners.

The weather during the day was the finest that has been served up for a Green and White homecoming in many years. Topcoats were in evidence but the sun shone on the bleachers until late in the day, warming them agreeably.

The homecoming program by the men's and girls' glee clubs and soloists was well received by an audience that overflowed Ewing Hall auditorium. Mothers, dads, and graduates, in greater number even than last year, made up the larger part of the appreciative audience.

It was the initial appearance of the year for the musical clubs and although both organizations have only a nucleus of last year's membership they gave a splendid account of themselves. The girls under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Benedict sang "Del Krigo" and "The Catechist."

Prof. Karl Andrist, head of the Violin department of the School of Music, played two numbers, "Liebessied" and Brown's "Waltz," accompanied by Prof. William Longstreet of the music faculty. Prof. Andrist's instrument is an exceptionally fine one valued at $5,000.

Miss Helen Hedden, also of the faculty of the Music School, sang "Come to the Fair" and "Lullaby," responding to her encore with "Cuckoo."

A string quartette composed of Misses Lois Cecil, Blanche Hollett, Alice Holmen, and Barbara Kantzer, played "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "The Mill."

The men's glee club sang, "Lassie O' Mine" and "Every Little Nail," joining with the girls and the audience in the singing of "Alma Mater."

The affairs of the day were brought to a close at midnight with the playing of the "Home Waltz" at the big Homecoming Hop in the Men's Gym. From eight-thirty until twelve o'clock the large hall was filled with dancers. The room was effectively decorated with autumn leaves, and university and organization banners.

The football victory, the ideal weather, and the large number of alumni and parents who came to Athens for the day, contributed to making the 1926 Homecoming and Dad's Day Celebration the most successful and enjoyable in recent years.

Class of 1923 Wins Again

June Crowd Largest

A correction of the records which may bring some disappointment in its wake must, in fairness to all concerned, be made at this time.

In the July number of the Ohio Alumnus it was announced that the bronze plaque offered to the reunion class having the largest percentage of attendance had been awarded to the Class of 1925. The award was made on the basis of registration figures in the Alumni office. Permission, however, had been granted to the Class of 1923 to register its members at their reunion dinner on June 6 and during its activities of the ensuing two days. The report of the class officers, showing the largest recorded class attendance, was delayed in reaching the central office thus giving rise to the erroneous report. The 1923 reunionists were winners over their rivals of 1925 by a margin of six. The class is therefore winner of the attendance plaque for a second consecutive year.

The report of the class secretary follows:

Report to Alumni Secretary

The Class of 1923, Ohio University, held its third annual reunion activities during the Commencement Season—June 6-8, 1926.

The reunion dinner was held Sunday, June 6, at 6.00 P. M. at the Hotel Berry. The following persons attended the dinner: Prof. C. N. Mackinnon, Class Adviser; Earl Beckley, Ethel E. Borton, Ferry A. Cady, Al Cordray, Mrs. Al Cordray (Mary Tener), C. R. Glazier, Asa A. Hoskins, W. Amos Kincaid, Wm. R. Longstreet, Dena Campbell Sheppard, Mr. R. C. Sheppard, Mabel Wagner, William V. Walsh, Mrs. Dwight Williams (Opal Cooley), Verena L. White, Chester W. Wolfe, Mrs. C. W. Wolfe, and Irene L. Devlin, Class Secretary.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the dinner was Earl Beckley, Chairman; Mrs. Opal Cooley Williams, and Miss Ethel Borton.

Other members of the Class of '23 who were in Athens for the Commencement Season are as follows: Mac Bobo, Jennie Mulligan, "Curley" Welsh, Madison Humphrey, Guy Fiber, Ralph Dinsmoor, Ellen Riley, Grace Roberts, Mildred Roberts, Mary Poston McKinstry, Helen Laverty, Betty Greene, Arthur James Edwards, Helen Ohlinger, Velma Staneart, Edw. J. Minister, Phryne Weinrich, Howard Longstaff, Goldie Strawn, Vaughn Chase, and Clarence Tocus.

The Class of 1923 was honored by having had presented to it by the Alumni Secretary, Mr. Clark E. Williams, a beautiful plaque in recognition of having had the largest percentage of alumni back for Commencement Season in 1925.

I take this opportunity to thank the Alumni Secretary, in behalf of the Class of 1923, for this token of recognition and assure him that it will be our constant aim ever to be at or near the top.

The Class voted to have another reunion next Commencement Season with the dinner at the same hour and place as this year on Baccalaureate Sunday.

Are we going to get another plaque? Let's try!

IRENE LUCILE DEVLIN,
Class Secretary.

PRE-MEDICS HAVE NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Jennings, Athens, have rented their home at 54 East Union Street to the new pre-medic fraternity, Omega Beta Pi. This is one of the oldest homesteads in the city.

Prof. Hatfield Dies in California at Ripe Age

Oldest Grad in Point of Years

With the passing, Aug. 19, 1926, of Prof. John L. Hatfield, '62, A. B., '65, A. M., at the age of eighty-seven years, Ohio University lost one of its three earliest living graduates. In point of age he was the senior of all living alumni, being almost a year older than Bishop Earl Granston, '61, and his classmate Dr. W. H. Scott, '62, both of whom are about one year younger than himself.

Prof. Hatfield had been an invalid for several years and a patient at Loma Linda Sanitarium for many months. The immediate cause of his death was a second paralytic stroke.

From 1870 to 1882 Mr. Hatfield was professor of Latin at Ohio University. Soon after graduating he entered the army and served till the close of the Civil War. He then entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Iowa, and filled successive pastorates till he came to the University. On leaving the University he returned to Iowa and became a farmer. In this pursuit he was highly successful, acquiring a large tract of fertile land and accumulating a considerable fortune. Several years ago he removed to southern California, where he purchased orange and English walnut groves, which also proved profitable.

Of Prof. Hatfield, his classmate, Dr. Scott, says: "His mind was cast in a superior mold. He thought clearly and his judgments were sound and comprehensive. He had a fine power of imagination, which found expression in some poems of genuine merit. Three, at least, of these poems have appeared in 'The Alumnus'. He was a worthy example of the work which the University did in the days of her adversity. His social instincts were strong and his friendships deep and abiding. In these last years I have had no closer or truer friend."

In a letter of September 4 Dr. Thomas F. Day, of the class of '76, says of him: "He was to the last the simple man of honest thought and plain speech, gentle, devoted to his teaching, weaving his choice English into rhyme, living the life of a Christian without ostentation, and making friends in the circles where he allowed himself to be known. . . . His linguistic instincts were sound; his English was of the best standards. His mind ran in literary rather than in philosophic channels. He found satisfaction in the obvious, unquestioned truths that form the staple of the common man's thinking, bringing to their expression a combination of wit and pragmatic sense which was characteristic of him.—Like all of us he had his fixed ideas. But he was not narrow, neither intolerant. The total impression he made upon me was that of a man who had had deep experiences often touched with sorrow, and who in a spirit of lowliness kept faith with God and man."

The last visit made by Mr. Hatfield to Ohio University was in 1922 when, hale, hearty, and full of humor, he keenly enjoyed a reunion with a few old friends and many of the younger generations. While in college he was a member of Beta Theta Pi when it was the only fraternity on the campus. He has remarked that he was personally acquainted with all of the charter members of the local chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

This brief biographical sketch can very fittingly be closed with the concluding verse of a poem, "Eventide," from Prof. Hatfield's own pen:

There's a calm upon the mountain,
There's a smile upon the seas
Theres' a nector in the fragrance
That is floating in the breeze;
Hope is casting out her anchor
Where the quiet waters rest
Within the golden portals
In the haven of the blest.
All hail the quiet harbor,
Where my rescued boat shall ride
Upon the stormless water
In the glowing Eventide.

Arthur E. Cameron, A. B. in Com., secretary of the 1926 class, is hard at work in the insurance business in Cleveland. Art is associated with the Cleveland branch of the Prudential Insurance Co. He comes by his inclinations naturally since his father and an uncle have been in the same business for many years.

Behold, A Better Magazine

We want you to observe, if you will please, the new raiment in which the Alumnus is arrayed and the increase in size and number of pages. In addition the type lines have been "opened up" for greater convenience in reading. The latter change is somewhat in the nature of an experiment and will be continued or discontinued at the will of a majority of the magazine's readers.

The general make-up and departments of the Alumnus will remain the same as last year. A greater expansion would permit of new departments and new features but for the coming year the improvements which have been mentioned just about represent, in increased cost, the amount of additional revenue to be anticipated over last year.

The alumni magazine receives three-fourths of the annual revenue from membership dues in the Alumni Association. The other one-fourth is used in the legitimate expense of office up keep and supply, June commencement and home-coming celebrations, promotion of Alumni chapter activities, and in dozens of various ways that defy classification. Not one cent of alumni membership dues finds its way into the pockets of the staff of the Alumni Office by way of the payroll or through any other channel. Our point is this, The Ohio Alumnus is now, and will be in the future, the best magazine that we are capable of producing upon the income provided by alumni support. We dream great dreams in which we picture the Alumnus favorably compared with the finest alumni magazines in the country but when we are cautioned by the treasurer that our funds are rapidly dwindling we are brought back to the world of realities and practicabilities where the stuff that our dreams are made of does not seem to thrive.

You who read this page do not need to be appealed to for support for you are loyally backing an enterprise of Ohio University's graduate body. It is those who will not read these words nor the circular referred to in the following comment under the heading, "Vital Statistics" who are withholding the support which is vitally needed. There are two ways, however, in which you may boost your magazine. The first is to promptly renew your membership and subscription when they expire and the second is to encourage your friends and classmates to join us as full-fledged, paid-up members of the association. Do these two things and your magazine will grow and your satisfaction in being a real, honest-to-goodness, live, and loyal supporter of your association's activities will increase many-fold.

This year's Alumnus is published at a much greater cost than last year. It was contracted for in the faith and belief that it would be supported. If you fail us this year there can be no improvements next year. We know you will not fail.

"Vital Statistics"

On the inside of the back cover page is reproduced a circular which was mailed to every four-year graduate of Ohio University who is not a member of the Alumni Association. It is reproduced because it should be thought provoking and because its figures tell the story of alumni support by classes.

In The Year 1926

Despite the charges of flippancy, light-mindedness, disregard for the proprieties, and disdain for a show of seriousness, we want to "point with pride" to the conduct of the student body of Ohio University at the homecoming football game on October 23.

It was a matter to provoke comment upon all sides and deservedly so because it was spontaneous, sincere, and unrestrained. It is for the following that we express our commendation.

Throughout sixty minutes of strenuous and grueling battle between the Ohio and the Cincinnati teams not once was a discourteous or inexcusable remark heard from the sidelines relative to any player or official. Although the Green and White team suffered penalties at the hands of the officials totaling ninety yards—enough to have lost many a game—not one student gave voice to protest in the unsportsmanlike terms of the past. And in contrast to a former day when injuries to opposing players were demanded and applauded from the bleachers, the Ohio yell leaders were busy directing cheers for temporarily disabled Cincinnati men. But finest of all was the sentiment displayed when the Cincinnati band rather unexpectedly played their Alma Mater song. Upon the first note the entire field of spectators was on its feet, the Ohio band was at attention, and the team stopped as it returned to the field. The utmost respect was accorded the visitors while they played and sang this anthem. At the close they were given one of the loudest cheers of the day.

Yes, the present college generation may be thoughtless and unresponsive to the finer "urges" but this was no demonstration of the fact. It was an impressive exhibition.

Send In Your Snaps

Snapshots of Ohio University alumni are wanted for use in the "De Alumnis" section of the magazine. Hereafter it will be the editor's aim to reproduce two interesting pictures in each issue—provided, of course, that the "snaps" are forthcoming from said alumni. Please do not hesitate to send 'em in. Either groups or individuals will be acceptable. Even if they are not selected for publication they will be mounted in the large scrapbooks which are a part of the office records.

Contest! Win A prize

In addition to the informal and interesting kodak pictures called for above, the loan, for reproduction purposes, of pictures of historical or general interest is sought. The picture appearing on page 5 is one such. It is the picture of Ohio University's first football team. It is the first of a series of group pictures which will appear in the Alumnus to which only the slightest description will be attached at the time of its publication. The names of the individuals will not be divulged until the issue of the following month. Six pictures will comprise the series. At the end of the contest the five persons who have named correctly the greatest number of individuals making up the groups will be awarded free membership in the Alumni Association for one year or, if members at present, will have their memberships extended for one year from the date of expiration.

Only one rule will govern the contest. That is that the names must be in the hands of the editor before the fifteenth of the month following the appearance of each picture. In case of ties a reasonable number of free memberships will be added. Groups from both the older and younger generations will be published in order that the contest may be fair to all.

As Others See You

Last April, from the fifteenth to the eighteenth, there gathered at Ohio State University in Columbus, the alumni secretaries of 95 colleges and universities representing an alumni constituency of well over 125,000. It was the thirteenth annual conference of the Association of Alumni Secretaries and the Alumni Magazines Associated. In these bodies there are the alumni workers of 224 schools enrolled. The membership includes practically all of the larger universities from coast to coast, and Canada, as well as dozens of the smaller institutions. Your own secretary has held membership in this organization for four years.

Before the 1926 conference came the ablest of the country's alumni workers and many distinguished "laymen," including President Clarence Cooke Little, of the University of Michigan, President Harry A. Garfield, of Williams College, President George W. Rightmire, of Ohio State University, Prof. William J. Newlin, of Amherst College, Major J. L. Griffith, of Western Conference athletics, and many others.

As conferences go, we daresay that this was as helpful and stimulating to the group involved as any held on the Ohio State campus last year. But in order that the alumni may know some things about themselves and perhaps gain some help and stimulation thereby we are going, from month to month, to give in brief part some of the observations of Dr. Newlin as made in his unusual and striking address, "Educational Relations With The Alumni." We think you'll enjoy Dr. Newlin's style. You may not be willing to apply all of his charges to yourself but you'll, of course, know someone to whom they are applicable. His viewpoint will be evident from his opening remarks which are given in this issue.

On The Campus

Two Thousand and Three

Ohio University's registration closed with the names of 2,003 students on the books. That is the official pronouncement of Registrar Dilley. It is the largest enrollment in the history of the school.

Mid-summer registration of the credentials of high school graduates gave indication of a bumper crop of freshmen. These indications became realities when over eight hundred and fifty new students registered during the first two days of the four day enrollment period. The total number this year exceeds that of last year by about two hundred—last year's final figure being 1,823.

Few people realize that there are almost as many students enrolled in Ohio University at the present moment as have graduated from four-year courses since the school was founded. A little delving around amongst the records discloses that, in the one hundred twenty-three years of its existence, the university has conferred 2,665 baccalaureate degrees.

Nearly one-half of these degrees have been granted since 1920—1,020, to be exact. Prior to 1860, fifty-six years after its establishment and 45 years after the first class was graduated in 1815, only 194 had received sheepskins with the Ohio University seal thereon.

Of the total number of graduates 2,363 are now living, while only 312 are recorded in alumni files as "deceased." The men hold a slight edge over the women in the matter of numbers there having been 1,321 men graduates and 1,042 women.

No Hurricane Here

Local Athenians are coming to rely on and appreciate the efforts of Ohio University weather forecasters to warn them of impending changes in the weather conditions.

The university's weather observatory is located on top of Ellis Hall and is under the control of Prof. C. E. Cooper and the department of Geography. All of the instruments necessary to a reasonably accurate forecast are owned by the university and are housed in a scientifically constructed shatter box. The instruments consist of a rain gauge; a minimum and maximum thermometer for recording the highest and lowest temperatures during a 24-hour period; a thermograph, which records permanently the changes of temperature throughout an entire week; a barometer with a baragraph, an instrument for permanently recording barometric pressure; an anemometer for measuring wind velocity; and a device for determining relative humidity. In addition to these recording instruments all of the official weather maps and forecasts of the U. S. Weather Bureau are received daily and posted in the department of Geography and in the university library.

Y. W. Cabinet Holds Retreat

The annual fall retreat of the Ohio University Y. W. C. A. cabinet was held October 8 and 9 at Huntington, W. Va., at the Gardner Inn which is managed by Edith and Elizabeth Gardner, former students of Ohio University. The purpose of the retreat is to allow members of the cabinet two days to plan the year's work, and to give opportunity for exchange of ideas.

The cabinet is composed of the general officers and chairmen of committees. The officers are: Evelyn Coulter, Toronto, O., president; Alva Birdsell, Delaware, O., vice-president; Virginia Knecht, Athens, secretary, and Miss Frances Goldsberry, Athens, treasurer.

The Green and White

The destinies of the Green and White, official student semi-weekly publication, are being worked out this year by the following staff members together with their subordinate officers.

Editor-in-chief, William F. Smiley, Pittsburgh, Pa. Associate editors: Homer Young, Ripley, W. Va.; Frances Pickering, Athens; Esther Schachtele, Bellevue, O.; Ruby Mercer, Athens; Edward Martin, Cleveland, O.; Marcia Scott, Athens; and Wayne Covert, Pittsburgh, Pa. Carl J. Wolfe, Pomeroy, O., is business manager.

Leader Struts at Head of Band

Ohio's green and white-clad band of sixty pieces is doing intricate maneuvers in military style under the very efficient and capable tutelage of Frank Peavy, Marietta, O. Peavy was for three years drum major of the Culver Military Band, one of the country's best. He has a whole bag full of tricks which he uncorks while strutting down the field and the band is enthusiastic in support of its marching leader.

The director of the band is John Gill, Columbus bandman. The student director is Eugene Heeter, Dayton, O., who is also president of the band and president of the university orchestra. It was obvious at the Denison game that the band this year will far outshine any other in the history of the school.

A New Song Book

A long-felt want is to be met on the campus with the early appearance of a new book, "Songs of Ohio University." The book has been prepared and edited by the Alumni Secretary with the aid of Dean Chubb and Director C. C. Robinson, of the School of Music.

The book, which is now in the hands of the printers, will contain 32 pages and be composed entirely of Ohio University songs. Six of the eighteen songs have never before been published and are expected to aid largely in bringing about a revival of song singing on the campus.

The books will have an attractive title page bearing a picture of the Alumni Gateway. They will be covered with heavy green paper on which the outside title will be electrotyped in white. The books will be available to members of the student body and to alumni at the lowest possible price based on the cost.

Ohio Co-eds Feted Abroad

Thirteen Ohio University girls, under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth Conklin of the French department of the University, spent two months abroad last summer visiting thirteen different European countries. Their tour through the Baltic countries of Europe was made through special arrangements with the "International Students' Confederation."

The Ohio students were joined in New York by groups from Harvard, Yale, Vassar, Amherst, Smith and several other of the larger eastern schools. In Europe, however, the group traveled alone. It is reported that they were accorded receptions abroad which in this country are reserved for notables of the highest rank. Princes, barons, ministers, admirals, and the students of foreign universities were their very gracious and never-tiring hosts. At Guertenberg, Germany, at a ball given in honor of the girls, the officers of the visiting Dutch fleet were their escorts for the evening.

One of the "Old Guard" Passes

One of the oldest trees on the campus and a member of the historic group of McGuffey Elms, was cut down by Davey tree surgeons,

Aug. 8, 1926, because of the danger of falling due to top-heaviness. Every surgical and mechanical means of preserving the tree had been exhausted before the decision for its removal was made. Davey tree surgeons have been giving attention to these trees annually for several years. This is the first of the "old guard" to go.

The Elms were planted in 1842 by Rev. William H. McGuffey, at that time president of Ohio University. According to one local historian, at the time the elms were planted there were but two trees on the campus. One of these was the "Old Beech" which stood in front of East Wing and which was cut down several years ago; the other was a small coffee tree which was located on the east side of the campus.

From All Around They Come

Students who have come to Ohio University over the transfer route from other schools and universities are a carefully scrutinized and hand-picked lot. Because their entrances are legitimate and their motives for coming defensible, they are as welcome as any freshman direct from his prep school.

The notable thing about these "transfers" this year is not their number but the number

Twenty-two New Officers of Instruction

Registration figures for Ohio University were smashed during the opening week when last-minute entrants boosted the enrollment over the 2,000 mark. The highest previous figure was reached last year when 1,823 registered for the second semester.

Not only does the student body show a noticeable increase but this year's faculty of 192 members will also be a record breaker. Of the teaching staff, twenty-two will be new to the Ohio campus. Thirteen are men and nine are women. Some are additions to the faculty while others are taking places made vacant by resignations. Three of the new members have the rank of professors, four are associate professors, six rank as assistant professors, and nine are instructors. This number does not include student assistants or new teachers in the training school.

The men and women who have come to Ohio's faculty have been trained in some of the finest schools in the country and in almost every case their academic preparation has been seasoned and reinforced by an adequate period of pedagogical experience. The names of the new people, together with their rank on the Ohio University faculty, degrees with schools from which obtained, and faculty last affiliated with follow:

Albert C. Gubitz, professor of Economics, B. S. (Colgate), A. M. (Indiana), Antioch College.

Leonard B. Job, professor of Education, A. B., A. M. (Indiana), Ph. D. (Columbia), Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Indiana.

A. B. Sias, professor of Education, A. B., A. M., (Rochester), Ph. D. (Stanford), Ohio State University.

Norman Fenton, associate professor of Psychology, A. B., A. M. (Harvard), Ph. D. (Stanford), State Teachers College, Tempe, Ariz.

Dean A. Worcester, associate professor of Psychology, A. B., A. M. (Colorado), Ph. D. (Ohio State), Kansas State Teachers College.

Milo J. Kimball, associate professor of Finance, B. S. (Ohio Northern), B. B. A. (Boston), Boston University.

E. R. Wallace, instructor in Agriculture, B. S. in Ed. (Ohio), Public Schools, Columbus, Ohio.

Edward A. Miller, instructor in Chemistry, B. S. (Mass. Institute of Technology). Graduate, Class of 1926.

Beatrice Loyer, instructor in Secretarial Studies, A. B. in Com. (Ohio). Graduate, Class of 1926.

Vera Board, instructor in Piano, L. T. C. M. (University of Toronto, Canada), student three years (Royal College of Music, London), private conservatory, Cleveland, O.

Roger Bennett, instructor in English, A. B. (Ohio Wesleyan), A. M. (Ohio State), Ohio State University.

Howard Longstaff, instructor in Psychology, A. B., B. S. in Ed. (Ohio). Graduate, Class of 1926.

Faye Farmer, instructor in Physical Education, B. S. (Minnesota), Junior College, Hibbing, Minn.

Doris Beise, instructor in Physical Education, B. S. (Minnesota). Graduate, Class of 1926.

Our "Get Acquainted" Column

The Ohio Alumnus will continue this year its series of informal sketches of newly acquired members of the Ohio University faculty.

It is with considerable pleasure, therefore, that we present Dr. A. B. Sias in this opening number and direct the attention of our readers to a most satisfying record of professional training and accomplishment.

Azariah Boody Sias was born near Rochester, New York, on a farm, January 2, 1880. His ancestors were French, who settled near Dover, New Hampshire, in the seventeenth century, the name being changed from Sieyes to Sias. His great, great-grandfather, Captain Charles Sias, who served in the Revolutionary War, moved to northern Vermont and was one of the first settlers in that region. The Boody family also moved to Rochester, New York, from New England. Azariah Boody, an uncle becoming a railroad man, built the Falls Branch of the New York Central and later, the Wabash. Azariah Boody also gave the campus upon which the University of Rochester now stands.

Mr. Sias is a graduate of the Rochester, N. Y. high school and of the University of Rochester. Phi Beta Kappa and other high honors were his while on the Rochester campus. He also holds the Master of Arts degree from this school.

In 1903 he became head of the department of English of Cook Academy, Montour Falls, N. Y. In 1904 and for several years thereafter he held positions in the English departments of the Rochester high schools and was head of the English department of West High School. For two years he was president of the New York State Association of Teachers of English. He served five years as a member of the executive committee of the Rochester Teachers' Association, and in 1921 was elected president of the association which had a membership of 1800 teachers. He, with other prominent educators of New York state, was instrumental in the passage of the present retirement and salary laws of that state.

In June, 1924, Mr. Sias left Rochester on a leave of absence to attend Stanford University, California, for the purpose of making a careful study of public school administration. He had become vitally interested in public school finance as a result of the problems confronting New York State and the larger cities. He majored at Stanford in Education and minored in Political Science and Economics. His work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was completed in July, 1926. His second year at Stanford, Mr. Sias held the Cubberly Fellowship in School Administration and was assistant in school administration. He was also president of the Stanford chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity.

Last July Mr. Sias left Stanford University to teach in the Ohio State University Summer Session. It was while teaching at Ohio State this summer that Mr. Sias received his appointment as Professor of Education at Ohio University, and he has taken up his work here at Athens for the first time this fall.

Wolfe Joins Harvard Faculty

Thomas M. Wolfe, '19, A. B., who graduated in June from the Harvard Business School with the highest honors of his class in the two year degree period of 1924-26, was this fall made a member of the faculty of the School of Business Administration. Mr. Wolfe will be an instructor in Finance.

Assistant Dean Clinton P. Biddle, '17, A. B., and Prof. Wolfe are both Ohio University men of practically the same college generation and both former editors of the Green and White.

Governor Unable to Attend

The faculty and student body of the University were disappointed on Sept. 23 when the chief executive of the state was unable to be present at the first convocation of the new school year. Governor Donahey has promised to pay the state's oldest educational institution a personal visit of inspection and it is expected that he will find it convenient to come to Athens during the winter.

Deeds Done in the Past Will Come to Light

Well, gentlemen, how does this look in print? This is one case where the dead past did not give careful attention to its burying. Old and musty faculty records, resurrected by the Alumni Secretary during the past summer, disclose that some of our most prominent alumni of the present day were once naughty students whose very presence on the campus was an abomination to the faculty, which body was pleased to temporarily suspend the young men for a brief period.

The atrocious and indefensible act which brought upon them the ire of the officers of administration and instruction was the setting fire, on the night of June 5, 1884, to two cottonwood trees which stood in front of East Wing. The act of incendiarism was the culmination of an hilarious, but otherwise perfectly respectable, evening enjoyed by, the now, Judge George W. Reed, Rev. Dr. Elmer A. Dent, Judge Lawrence G. Worstell, Judge Edwin D. Sayre, and other like-minded spirits, all, or most of whom, resided in the Wing.

The records show that all were assessed a dollar each to defray the expenses incident to the removal of the trees. Fourteen of the culprits paid their assessments and were immediately restored to places of honor and equality among their fellow campus citizens. The fifteenth member of the group "held out" on his august accusers and refused to pay his dollar. His name does not appear in the list mentioned above. He now resides in the far away state of Utah.

In answer to a good-natured letter of reminder, Judge Reed, former president of the Alumni Association, replied, in part, as follows:

"But, dear me! How about the episode of the cottonwood trees and how about being called up to plead "guilty or not guilty" after the expiration of forty years. Those trees stood immediately east of the East Wing. It is funny what one remembers and what one forgets but I remember very distinctly, indeed, that the next day we celebrated the episode in more or less classic verse giving the whole performance, with the names of the malefactors, on the college bulletin board; all of which certainly added insult to injury. On the other hand I had actually forgotten (if I ever knew) that I had been suspended from the University or had paid a good honest dollar in connection with the episode. Come to think of it I suppose that the University owes me that dollar with compound interest to date and

I will be very much obliged to you if you will have the department of mathematics figure up the amount for forty-two years, two months and twenty-nine days and send me a voucher for the proper amount. I remember the date because I now recall that the first two lines of the alleged poem were:

'Twas Saturday night the fifth of June
When the Profs. had retired a little too soon etc."

"Ohio Hills"

After teaching for nine consecutive years in high schools in southeastern Ohio, Bessie M. Gorslene, '12, A. B., '13, A. M., has granted herself a leave of absence this year for rest and recreation at her home in Athens.

As proof that her literary talents have not diminished since leaving Dr. Chubb's classroom the following poem is offered as a bit of contemporary literature.

Ohio hills are golden
At dawn or set of sun;
Ohio hills are emerald
Ere yet the day is done.

Ohio hills are rugged
For health and strength are there,
And shelter, too, in time of storm
And rest from toil and care.

Ohio hills are purple
Or flushed with ruby-red
When evening skies are carmine
With amethyst o'er head.

Ohio hills are matchless
When autumn makes the trees
More colorful than tropic lands
Beyond the tropic seas.

HEADS AMERICAN BATTLE FLEET

Rear Admiral Louis R. De Steiguer, of the United States Navy, has been elevated to the command of the battleship division of the American fleet, with rank of vice admiral, effective September 1. Admiral De Steiguer was a student at Ohio University for a brief time in the 80's.

Russell Herrold Made President of Tile Company

Advances Rapidly

The promotion of Russell P. Herrold, '16, A. B., to the presidency of the Mosaic Tile Company, of Zanesville, O., was announced by the directors of this company, Sept. 7, 1926.

Russell P. Herrold

School of Business Administration. He was promoted to the secretaryship and then to the general management by the late William M. Bateman.

As a leading article in the Zanesville Signal, the paper gives the following account of Mr. Herrold's appointment:

"The election of Mr. Herrold to the head of this great industry is in line with the advancement of employes policy of the banking and manufacturing concerns in which Mr. Bateman was interested and is a fitting recognition of the competent and efficient services of Mr. Herrold and the entire staff of employes.

"Mr. Herrold has been secretary and general manager and superintendent of the plant under the late Mr. Bateman and is thoroughly experienced in the details of the operation of the industry. He became identified with the company about six years ago and his efficiency and capabilities have long been recognized by the former heads of the plant.

"Mr. Herrold is the third president of the company. The Mosaic Tile Company is one of the mammoth industries of Zanesville and the products of the company are distributed throughout the world."

Must Be In The Blood

Family of Journalists

Does the Mendelian theory explain this? Perhaps not, but there is no theorization necessary to demonstrate the very obvious fact that the Bushes—Fred, Gordon, and Marian—compose a journalistic triumvirate such as no other Ohio University family can boast.

It's this way. Fred W. Bush, '92, B. Ped., is editor and publisher of the Athens Daily Messenger, a newspaper with a bona fide daily circulation of 10,500 copies in a small city of 6,500 and its outlying territory. The paper is distributed over a radius of fifty miles. Mr. Bush is vice-president of the Select List of Ohio Dailies and a member of the board of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Then there is Gordon K. Bush, '24, A. B. After taking a Master's degree in Journalism at the University of Missouri he entered the Harvard School of Business Administration from which he graduated with honors last June. In July he allied himself with the United Publishing Co. of New York, the parent organization of twenty-seven of the leading trade journals of the country. His immediate contact was with the research department of the Economist. And now, in October, there comes word that Gordon has been promoted to Director of Research of the Economist Group.

And what about Marian? Marian is Mrs. Julian M. Snyder, '24-ex, of Cambridge, Mass. When she married she chose a young fellow who seemed destined to make good in the field of journalism—and he has. Mr. Snyder, '22, A. B., after periods of management of the United Press bureaus in Cleveland, Florida, and finally as the U. P. Senate correspondent at Washington, has entered Harvard University for post-graduate work in the Business School. While in Cleveland Mrs. Snyder was a feature writer for a leading newspaper. In Florida she edited a woman's page for a syndicate of daily newspapers. When her husband was assigned to the press service at the national capitol she immediately found employment with the Washington Times-Herald. She resigned this position, in which she had managed and completed one of the paper's largest subscription campaigns, to accompany her husband to Cambridge in September. At the present time she is relaxing from several months of very strenuous work.

One Hundred Twenty-two Finish Courses in Mid-August

Commencement exercises for one hundred twenty-one graduates were held in Ewing Auditorium, Aug. 13, 1926. This was the first class ever to receive diplomas at the close of an Ohio University summer session. An interesting fact regarding the summer enrollment was that almost exactly one-tenth of the students were in the graduating class. The size of the summer class was just that of the June class in 1911.

President Bryan delivered the commencement address. A summarization of his message to the departing graduates is to the effect that unless the makers of this world shall go forth with the conviction that the marvelous and ever-changing institutions of society are not ends in themselves but agencies and means to an end, and that only ends in themselves are human beings, the changes in this world which are bound to come will be mad instead of wise, and harmful instead of helpful; and that only in so far as the leaders in the world move on the philosophy that every human being has the right to self-discovery, self-development and self-expression, will a contribution to the upward movement of civilization be made.

Beautifully rendered duets by Miss Helen Bowles, '22, Voice, and Mr. Fred Lee Tom, '14, Voice and Pub. Sch. Mus., were the musical embellishments of the program.

Intramural Sports Get Under Way at Big Gymnasium

The annual lid-lifter for intramural sports at Ohio University was held on Oct. 21, when three games of indoor baseball were played in the "A" association.

A wide variety of sports is provided for in the extensive program of intramural athletics which Coach B. T. Grover has announced for the 1926-27 season. Indoor baseball, basketball, indoor and outdoor track, and handball are the major sports in the intramural scheme. Of these basketball doubtless creates the greatest interest outside the circle of players.

Wilda I. Hunter, A. B., is teaching at Mingo Junction, O., this fall. Mingo is one of the iron and steel towns on the Ohio River.

Horn Makes Good in Harvard School

The following telegram received by university officials, carries news of the fine record being made by Robert H. Horn, '25, A. B. in Com., in the Harvard School of Business Administration. The telegram was dated Oct. 6.

Robert H. Horn

"R. H. Horn, of Athens, a second year man in the Harvard Business School and a graduate of Ohio University in the Class of 1925, has been elected to the Harvard Business School Review, the official student publication on business affairs. Election to the Review is based solely on scholarship, approximately fifteen of the second year class being chosen annually." At the close of his first year's work Horn received the grade of "distinction" in three of four subjects and grade of "high pass" in fourth.

Bob is the son of Mr. Clarence H. Horn, '01, Com., and Mrs. Horn (Sarah Murphy, Com. '00) of Athens. While at Ohio University he was a member of Phi Delta Theta and Pi Gamma Epsilon and Torch fraternities, student assistant in the School of Commerce, 1924 baseball manager, and an officer and participant in numerous other activities. He has spent the past summer in the employment of the Union Trust Co., Cleveland.

Ohio Opens Season With Victory--Defeat Comes Later--Another Win

A smooth well-coached Ohio University football team literally smothered the Rio Grande College eleven in a one-sided game on a wet Ohio Field on the afternoon of Oct. 2. This game was the season's opener and was viewed by a large crowd which was anxious to see the Green and White squad in action and to size them up for the first time.

The final score against Rio Grande was 40-0 and might easily have been 60-0 had Coach Peden elected to leave his first stringers in the game during the second half. Captain Wise, Shafer, Duncan, Sweeney, and Blythe, all men from last year, were not in the starting line-up. Six new men were starters for the first time under the Bobcat banner.

Akron

The Akron story is of a different nature. Akron's rubber apparently proved too tough for the claws of the Bobcats who suffered defeat in the northern city by the slender margin of three points. Johnson, the signal barker for the zippers booted a drop-kick through the bars in the second quarter to give his team a 3 to 0 victory. The game for the most part consisted of a punting duel between Sweeney of Ohio and Wargo of Akron, with the Akronite holding a slight advantage.

The Bobcats showed a strong defense in this game but lacked scoring ability. Three fumbles in the first half cost Ohio a victory. One fumble lost an almost certain touchdown while another paved the way for Akron's three points.

A large group of Ohio grads located in northern Ohio were present to cheer the team in its efforts. The disappointment was no keener for them than for a much larger group gathered around the "Gridgraph" in the Ohio Gym following the game play by play on the electric board.

Denison

Straight football with emphasis on defense was the style of play elected for use against the heavy Denison team. As an exhibition of defensive tactics it was one of the finest games witnessed on Ohio Field in several years. A 6 to 0 victory was gained without once resorting to a forward pass or a strategy play. What Cincinnati scouts learned from the 60 minutes of the game must have proved disappointing when reported to headquarters. The points came from two well directed dropkicks from the toe of Jack Sweeney, Bobcat quarterback.

Ohio outplayed the Big Red team throughout the greater part of the game, but the margin of superiority is indicated in the score, and the fact that Ohio failed to cross the Denison goal line speaks well for the defensive work of Coach Livingston's men. It was anybody's game from the first whistle to the last. Denison's play was the opposite of that of Ohio. The Big Red filled the air with forward passes very few of which, however, were successful.

The entire Ohio line played well but Captain "Gravy" Wise especially shone in his sparkling work in the open field. Coach Peden was elated over the fight and enthusiasm evidenced by every man on the team. It did the Bobcat coach a world of good to see Longley, Jarvie, Dando, Shafer, Blythe, Robeson, and Kennard fighting for Ohio when they were so bunged up physically that they should have been parked on the sidelines. "Stuff like that is what makes winning teams," was the comment of Coach Peden after the game.

Homecoming Victory Pleases Crowd

The Cincinnati-Ohio game, Oct. 23, opened, after the kick-off by the Bearcats, with the ball on Ohio's 16-yard line. The Bobcats immediately began an offensive that netted six straight downs before a penalty lost them possession of the ball. Throughout the game the Ohio eleven had the ball in Cincinnati territory, the Bearcats pushing the pigskin within scoring distance only once, that coming directly following a poor punt by Sweeney, two minutes after the opening of the game.

To Sayles and McKinley go the major honors of the day. Sayles looked better than he has in the past two years, and justified the confidence Coach Peden has placed in him. Three long runs fell to Sayles and once he completed a pass for a twenty-two yard gain.

McKinley, playing his first game at a half-back position, looked like a veteran. On end-runs and off-tackle plays, McKinley had no superior. With Cincinnati tacklers hanging all over him, this sturdy half kept going for additional gains. Pete wore the famous "Red" Grange number into action, 77, and carried it in a style that would do justice to the Illinois flash.

Robeson and Kennard played well in the backfield, despite the injuries from which they were suffering. And when it came to needing the final punch within scoring distance, "Bud" Doran, supplied that need. Four times this full-back was called upon to carry the ball across, and each time, he responded.

On the line, "Red" Longley and Charlie Blythe repulsed every thrust of the Bearcats in that direction. Shafer, too, showed better than he has at any time this season. Wise continued to display All-Ohio ability at the end position. The Bobcat captain tackled with deadly results, and blocked a Cincinnati punt that accounted for the final score of the game. If he keeps playing as he has in the past games, it will be difficult indeed to keep him from the mythical team this season.

Coach Peden sent almost every man on his squad into the game without seeming to check the smashing attack. Every Bobcat who entered the game took up the task from where the former player had left it. No one failed when his opportunity came.

Paul (T-Bone) Theisen, A. B. in Com., captain of the 1926 varsity baseball team, was elected athletic director and coach of the high school at Buchtel, O.

Cross Country Men Win By Single Point

Ohio University's cross country team defeated the Denison harriers, Oct. 16, by the margin of one point. The score was 27 to 28. The meet was held during the Ohio-Denison football game, the race starting during the second quarter, and terminating between halves. Schall, Percelle, Glander, Mosher, Weaver and Wiegand represented Ohio.

The result of the meet was pleasing to Coach Zimmer who placed an inexperienced team in the field. The sport is new at Ohio, this being the first meet ever held here, but from the ovation which greeted the runners as they finished, apparently it will be a popular sport in a short time. The course, which was four miles in length, led the men through the hospital grounds, the runners finishing at the athletic field.

All of the Ohio entrants made a good showing, but the running of Schall and Wiegand was exceptional. Schall led the field and finished the course in 24 minutes and 4 seconds. He was closely followed by Evans of Denison who made the distance in 24 minutes and 12 seconds. Wiegand was the last Ohio man to finish but his effort in the last few yards of the course won the meet for Ohio.

Coach Zimmer is pointing his men toward the meet with Ohio Wesleyan which will be held during the Ohio-Ohio Wesleyan game. The Bishops have been noted for their representatives in this sport in past years and will place a strong team in the field against Ohio.

Gibson Attends

One of the interested sideline spectators at the Denison-Ohio game at Ohio Field, Oct. 16, was Ned Gibson, an electrical engineer of Canandaguia, N. Y. He was a halfback on the famous football team of 1897 which claimed the championship of Ohio—and much of the adjoining territory. Ned was accompanied by his brother, Clyde O. Gibson, '11-ex, of Amesville, O., an equally famous ball-toter in his day.

Let's Go, Ohio!

Just twenty years ago—on October 14—the Green and White gridiron squad battered the team from Ohio Wesleyan University to the extent of 65 to 0. The score stands as a record in the long years of competition between these schools. On Saturday, Oct. 30, 1926, Coach Peden's team of fighting "Bobcats" will meet its ancient foe again. You inquire of odds? We'll we don't bet but we'll not hesitate to predict another victory for the Ohio colors.

Another Broadcaster

On the evening of July 28, Ohio University's School of Music was represented on a musical program broadcasted from WLW at Cincinnati. The representative was Miss Helen Hedden, instructor in Voice, who was at that time a member of the summer faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Deaths

Allen—A five-months' fight against the attacks of influenza resulted finally in the death of Miss Helen Smedley Allen, '27-ex, at the home of her parents, Athens, O., Aug. 21, 1926.

Miss Allen contracted influenza in New York City just three months before she was to have received her degree from Columbia University. She entered Ohio University in the fall of 1923 and had completed most of the work for her degree when she transferred to the eastern school. She was a member of Theta Phi Alpha.

Lash—Word came from Chicago of the death in that city, Aug. 20, 1926, of Mr. Morrison R. Lash, ex. Mr. Lash was an electrical student in the university and aided in the installation of the first electric light plant in Athens. For many years he had been associated with the M. B. Austin Co., Chicago. He was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta.

Hilse—Mrs. William Hilse (Marie VanderSlice, '12, Ph. B.) of Madisonville, O., met death, Aug. 14, 1926, in an automobile accident. No further details have come to the Alumni Office.

Hunter—For many years the records of the central office have shown Dr. John A. Hunter, '64, A. B., as being a resident of Philadelphia, Pa. Information recently received, however, discloses that his death occurred April 26, 1916. Dr. Hunter was a physician practicing in Philadelphia at the time of his death. Were he still living he would be one of the university's oldest graduates.

According to the compilation of membership statistics by classes which appeared in the circular used in the fall membership campaign the Class of 1870 was credited with a living representation of three members. A letter from Dr. Philip Zenner, A. B., Cincinnati, O., contains the information that, as far as he knows, there are no members now living beside himself. The addresses of the other two supposed living grads of this class have not been verified since, in one case, 1919, and in the other, 1915. An effort, subsequent to the receipt of Dr. Zenner's letter, to locate George E. Wells, A. B., and Thomas J. Harrison, A. B. has failed so it looks as though Dr. Zenner is entitled to a place in the distinguished group of "one and only" class representatives, among whom are: Bishop Earl Cranston, '61; Dr. William H. Scott, '62; Prof. John R. Scott, '64; Rev. Thomas G. Wakefield, '68; Dr. Philip Zenner, '70; Dr. John W. Maguire, '74; and Dr. Charles H. Higgins, '87.

Prof. F. S. Coultrap, A. B., and Mrs. Coultrap are enjoying the sunshine and the varied pleasures that California affords at Long Beach.

1876

Rev. Thomas Franklin Day, A. B., A. M., Ph. D., D. D., was one of the members of the fifty-year reunion class who was not able to be present last June on account of the great distance which separated him from the center of activities. It is certain, however, that his heart was with his two classmates, Reuben S. Pickens and John S. McKown, who were back.

1881

Dr. W. H. Monahan, ex. of Jackson, O., was a campus visitor late in August. He is the son of the late Colonel Monahan of Civil War fame and the father of Robert M. Monahan, '25, A. B., a graduate student in Harvard University.

On the wall of a long-unpapered recess under a stairway in East Wing are scribbled the names of Elisha A. Tinker, Ph. B., B. Ped., and William B. McPherson, '93, A. B., '14, B. S. in

Ed. This bit of chirographic art was doubtless practiced during undergraduate days. Mr. Tinker was for many years one of the foremost attorneys in Ross county. In 1911 he was called back to his Alma Mater to deliver the Alumni address at the June Commencement. He died at Chillicothe, O., March 21, 1922. Mr. McPherson is yet in the land of the living and is serving the cause of public education at Kingston, O.

Dr. Samuel K. Mardis, B. Ped., who sought the Republican nomination for representative to the Ohio legislature from Athens county was successful by a large majority of votes.

From out in the Golden West we learn of the location of another Ohio man. Frank C. Schofield, A. B., '97, A. M., resides in Palo Alto and is an instructor in English in the Polytechnic High School of San Francisco.

1897

Charles C. Smith, B. S., after many years of successful practice as an attorney in Cleveland, O., and Guthrie, Okla., is now a District Judge of the State of Oklahoma with his residence in Guthrie.

1903

Summer visitors to the campus were numerous this year—and exceedingly welcome. Amongst others was Frank Richardson, ex. Mr. Richardson was a star halfback on the football teams of '00, '01, '02, playing with Ted Sullivan. Mr. Richardson is now an engineer with a large copper mining syndicate in southern South Africa. He married a young lady from Lancaster, O., a former student of the University.

Another graduate to return to the campus of her Alma Mater during the summer was Nancy Linton, Ph. B., of Chicago, Ill. Miss Linton has been teaching in the Chicago schools for many years.

Mrs. Florence Clayton Yocum, Ph. B., was called to her home in Athens this summer by the death of her mother. Mrs. Yocum is a teacher of Stenography in one of the high schools of Washington, D. C. Her father was the late Jefferson B. Clayton of the class of 1862.

Blanche Mohler, Ph. B., has returned to Tucson, Arizona, to enjoy "a glorious climate and days and days of wonderful sunshine." She is spending part of her time as secretary to Dr. B. Wrenn Webb, Synodical Executive of the Presbyterian Church in Arizona.

Prof. Frank B. Gullum, B. S., of Ohio University, spent the summer months in Columbus doing graduate work in Chemistry at Ohio State University.

James W. Wisda, B. S., paid a hurried visit to the Alumni Office, and to old university friends, on Oct. 11. "Jim" was an outstanding baseballer in his day at Ohio U. He is now located at Rawlins, Wyo., as a Civil and Geological Engineer. Besides Jim, there are Mrs. Wisda and three children.

1910

David M. Cooper, B. S., writes from Cadiz, O., where he is a division state highway engineer, "Enclosed find your 'Hold-up haul'." Dave always was a good-natured fellow.

1911

C. W. Bingman, B. Ped., president of South Park College, Beaumont, Texas, received the Master of Arts degree from the University of Texas on August 31. He was also accorded the honor of election to Phi Delta Kappa, honorary educational fraternity. President Bingman will have Blanche Walden, ex-'16, as a member of his faculty for the coming year. Miss Walden formerly taught in Struthers and Youngstown, O.

F. D. Forsyth, Ph. B., after reading the "vital statistics" says, "Shame on our Class of 1911. I thought we were all 100% for Ohio University." If all grads could be counted on to "come through" as "Sy" does, year after year, there would be no need for "Hold-up" tactics as a means of replenishing the treasury.

Mrs. Fred C. Langenburg (Louise Higgins, Piano) and daughter, Elizabeth, of Boston, Mass., spent the summer months in European travel.

Gail Patterson, B. S. in Ed., is at her home in Shadyside, O., enjoying a fifteen month's furlough from her work as a missionary in India. Miss Patterson has been in India for several years under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church. She has been stationed at Hyderabad, one of the largest cities in India and located in the southern part of the country.

Captain E. S. Jackson and Mrs. Jackson (Kathleen Merritt, A. B.) were visitors in Athens during the summer. Captain Jackson has held two unique commands in the United States Navy. Prior to his assignment as commanding officer of the giant dirigible, Los Angeles, he walked the quarter-deck of the U. S. S. Langley, the navy's largest "mother" ship for airplanes.

After a year spent at Columbia University Carrie E. Ricketts, B. S. in Ed., associated herself with the public school system of Frostburg, Md., as an instructor in the high school.

Edith McBee, ex., is leaving in November for Foochow, China, to take up work as a missionary in the schools of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Old friends of Stanley Dougan, B. S., were happy to greet him in Athens during his very brief visit back in Ohio late this summer. Dr. Dougan, who for some time was connected with Lane Hospital of Leland Stanford University, is now practicing medicine and surgery in San Jose, Calif. His practice is limited to Obstetrics and Gynecology. "Stan" will be remembered as one of Ohio's greatest baseball twirlers. He was at one time a member of the Cleveland American league team, later playing for several years in the Pacific Coast League.

Prof. Samuel Renshaw, A. B., and Mrs. Renshaw, of Columbus, O., were among the summer visitors to the campus. Prof. Renshaw, at one time an assistant in the local department of Psychology, is now an instructor in Psychology at Ohio State University.

It is Doctor Lutes, if you please. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred upon Olin S. Lutes by the State University of Iowa in June, 1926. During the summer he was a member of the faculty of Rochester University, Rochester, N. Y. At the present time he is head of the department of Education of the University of Maine, Orono, Me.

Mr. Leo Schaeffler, B. S., and Mrs. Schaeffler (Marguerite Taylor, '17, A. B.) are now enroute to Los Angeles, Calif., from their home in Canton, O. The trip is being made by motor. Dutch and his wife stopped off in Athens, on the way through, for a brief visit with friends and relatives. They will return East in about four weeks.

Two loyal and consistent supporters of the Alumni Association from Warren, O., are always among the first to send in their annual membership dues each fall. Would you like to know their names? All right, they are Mrs. Harry L. Barr (Marie Luntz, Pub. Sch. Draw.) and Vada Dartt, '22, A. B. If the association had any engraved certificates their names would be on two of them.

John W. Stewart, A. B., for several years principal of the high school at Scienceville, O., has accepted the principalship of Memorial High School, East Youngstown, a position made vacant by the resignation of another Ohio graduate who has gone to Kent, O.

Raymond M. Clark, B. S. in Ed., formerly principal of Memorial (Penhale) High School, East Youngstown, O., has left the public schools to accept a professorship in the State Normal College at Kent, O.

One of Ohio University's standard bearers is located on far off Java from where he writes for "the latest news concerning the university." Ping K. Chan, A. B., whose home was formerly in Canton, China, is the alumnus referred to. His letter gives no clue as to his business or profsesion although it is likely that it is some phase of the exporting or importing game. His address is: 124 Sidodadi Straat, Sourabaya, Java.

Margaret Davis, A. B., for some time manager of a cafeteria in Allentown, Pa., has gone to Ft. Myers, Fla., for an indefinite stay. Enroute, she stopped in Atlanta, Ga., to attend a national restaurant convention.

Mrs. Walter J. Shapter (Margaret Durrett, A. B.) of Columbus, O., writes for information regarding Homecoming Day. It's not often that we miss "Marg" and Walter on the big days back on the campus.

Ann McNaughten, A. B., sailed, late in August, for our neighboring Republic of Panama to engage in her second year of teaching in the government schools.

After a year's study at Yale University under Prof. Baker, Rupel J. Jones, A. B., has entered upon the duties of his new position as professor of English and Dramatics in Millikan University, Decatur, Ill.

Homer H. Marshman, A. B., who graduated from the Harvard Law School a couple of years ago, is now well connected with the legal firm of Anderson, Lamb and Marstetler, of Youngstown, O.

Nathan Poffenbarger, ex, of Charleston, W. Va., is a student enrolled in the Law School of Columbia University. "Poffy" inherits his inclinations toward the law from his father, a district judge in the Mountain State.

Edwin W. Chubb, A. B., has resumed his studies at Yale University after a summer spent with his parents, Dean and Mrs. E. W. Chubb. Mr. Chubb will be a candidate for the Master of Arts degree next June.

Lowell H. Chase, B. S., is superintending the planting of a large fruit farm near Albany, O. He is a World War aviator and a former teacher in the high school at Follansbee, W. Va. Mr. Chase's brother, Vaughn Chase, '23, A. B. in Com., is a special accountant with the U. S. Department of Justice at Washington. At the time this is written he is at Cleveland assisting in the investigation of frauds against the government.

Roy H. Paynter, A. B. in Com., explains that his recent removal from Cambridge, Mass., to Troy, N. Y., is not to be taken as an indication that he has quit teaching but that he has merely changed his environment. Prof. Paynter taught last year in Northeastern University, Boston. This year he goes to Troy as Director of the Secretarial School of Russell Sage College, a school whose admission is limited to women only.

Robert S. Soule, A. B. in Com., this fall became Field Agent and head of the Placement Bureau of the Mountain State Business College of Parkersburg, W. Va. The position is one of fine opportunities and much responsibility since the school is growing rapidly and drawing from a large surrounding territory. Bob was instructor in Public Speaking and Debate at Parkersburg High for two years.

Dennis West, A. B. in Com., and Mrs. West (Letitia Kimmel, B. S. in Ed. '25) have obeyed that injunction given to young people to migrate in a westerly direction and are now located in Arlee, Montana, where Mr. West is superintendent of the public schools. Mrs. West is teaching English in the high school. Arlee is located "on the Flathead Indian Reservation in a beautiful valley in the mountains." Dennis and Letitia had been teachers in Peebles, O., for two years, Mr. West being principal of the high school.

After a summer spent at Columbia University, Gertrude Maier, B. S. in Ed., has taken a position in Bellevue, O., as a member of the faculty of Bellevue High School. She has been teaching for several years in Decatur, Ill., under Supt. John J. Richeson, '10, B. Ped., at present superintendent of the Youngstown, O., schools. She now transfers her allegiance to the banner of Charles M. Carrick, '91, A. B., another Ohio man.

Velma Staneart, A. B. in Com., has held a position as clerk in the Ohio University Registrar's office for the past two years.

E. L. Newsom, B. S. in Ed., has taken a position as instructor in Manual Arts in the Toledo, O., schools this year. A fine increase in salary helped draw him from his last year's position at Wilkesville, O.

Lindsay M. Pryor, A. B. in Com., has left the Travelers Insurance Co., to accept a much better position with the Insurance department of the Columbus Dispatch, one of the leading Ohio newspapers.

Supt. R. J. Keifer and the Board of Education of Niles, O., are evidently convinced that they can safely put the stamp of approval on Ohio University graduates and that the efforts of Ohio's teachers may be compensated for "value received." A directory of the Niles Public Schools contains the names of thirty Ohio graduates. On the senior high school faculty are: Orrill Hanna, A. B., '24; T. C. Bond, A. B. '23; Arthur Rhollans, A. B. in Com., '23; and J. C. Hall, B. S. in Ed., '25. Junior high schools: Miles Dearth, B. S. in Ed. '18; E. L. Kennedy, '29-ex; Clarence Mergler, Ind. Ed., '25; Glenn Woods, B. S. in Ed. '26; Mildred Yarnall, B. S. in Ed. '26; L. D. Calvert, Ind. Ed. '22; Arthur D. Oakley, B. S. in Ed. '25; Mabel Hatfield, B. S. in Ed. '26. Elementary Schools: Helen Tobrocke, '25, El. Ed.; Florence Jones, '26, El. Ed.; Martha Whipple, '25, El. Ed., Anita Cline, '24, El. Ed., Josephine Lyden, '26-ex; Glanna Ramsey, '26, El. Ed.; Anne Archer, '26, El. Ed.; Hazel Hite, '26, El. Ed., Mary Mansfield, '26, Kdgtn. Pri.; Mabel Cole, '28; Rosemary Farley, '24, El. Ed. Mary Breen, '28; Elsie Gable, '24, El. Ed.; Elza Frazier, '26; Kdgtn., Louise Rannells, '24, B. S. in Ed.; Dorothea Jones, '26, B. S. in Ed.; and Agnes Lyden, '24-ex.

of Mansfield, O., has been transferred to the Huntington, W. Va., office of that concern. Mr. May's new territory embraces the whole of the state of West Virginia.

Howard G. Moritz, B. S. in Ed., fast-stepping half-back, of his day, is a coach and instructor in the fine Shaker Heights high school of Cleveland. The principal of this school is Russell H. Rupp, formerly of the Athens high school.

Park—Stiers—Foster—Kidd

Josephine Stiers, A. B., has an interesting position at Fort Collins, Colorado, as assistant to the Dean of Women and to the General Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of the Colorado Agricultural College. Josephine says "this is the west of glorious scenery and friendly people. I dare not start a description of it lest this letter exceed all postage rates and reason."

Helen Gleason, B. E. in Ed., graduate in the 1926 Class and part-time assistant in the office of Dr. T. C. McCracken, dean of the College of Education, Ohio University, has gone to Winter Park, Florida, to be secretary to the dean of Rollins College. The new dean is Dr. Geo. C. Carrothers, until this fall a member of the Ohio U. faculty.

William S. Moore, Jr., A. B. in Com., stepped into one of the finest positions secured by any of this year's graduates of the School of Commerce. He was offered, and accepted, a position with Barron G. Collier, Inc., of Pittsburgh, as an advertising salesman. The Collier concern is associated with the largest advertising organization in the world, controlling the street car advertising rights in 4,150 cities and towns.

From Ohio University McClellan Allen, A. B., went to Norwood, O., to become an instructor in English in Norwood High School. Mae finds his work very pleasant and agreeable.

Janice Battin, B. S. in Ed., and Margaret Crowe, '27, were both summer workers in the camp at Jackson, Mich., maintained by the national body of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority for under-privileged children.

The S. S. Kresge organization has accepted another Ohio man for a position with its large store in Dayton, O. Paul Smith, A. B. in Com., is the fellow.

Mary Ellen Moore, B. S. in Physical Ed., is helping to meet the demand for specialists in her field by teaching physical education in the Adams school of Youngstown, O. Miss Moore was one of three girls to win the Varsity "O" awarded by the Women's Athletic Association last year.

Marriages

Grover-Cherrington—Because of a host of friends in alumni circles the wedding, Sept. 1, 1926, of Miss Maria Grover, '17, B. S. in Ed., Athens, O., and Prof. Homer V. Cherrington, '14, A. B., McArthur, O., was attended by much interest.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty, '17, B. S. in Ed., and Coach Brandon T. Grover, '19, B. S. in Ed. For several years she has been an instructor in English and dean of girls in the high school at Huntington, W. Va. She had completed much of her work toward the Master's degree at Columbia University.

The bridegroom is a member of the faculty of Ohio University in the department of Economics. He has done graduate work at the University of Michigan and holds his Master of Arts degree from Harvard to which school he has returned this fall on a year's leave of absence for study on his Doctorate. Mr. and Mrs. Cherrington are happily located in one of the new university apartments overlooking the Charles River, Cambridge.

Dailey-Bourns—An exceptionally pretty wedding of Aug. 14, 1926, was that of Miss Mary Helen Dailey, '23-ex, and Mr. Jacques Bourns, both of Los Angeles, in the Church of the Flowers at Glendale, Calif.

After three years at Ohio University Miss Dailey went to California where she completed her work for a degree from the University of California. For two and a half years she was a teacher at San Pedro and Huntington Beach, Calif. Mr. Bourns is a sales agent for pianos and musical instruments.

Vorhes-Floto—Before the members of her immediate family Miss Esther Vorhes, '24, A. B., Nelsonville, O., became the bride of Mr. Walter G. Floto, Steubenville, O., on Sept. 8, 1926. Miss Vorhes is a member of Alpha Delta Pi. For the last two years she has been an instructor in English in the Nelsonville High school. Mr. Floto is engaged in the shoe business in Steubenville, the city in which they have located.

Ohlinger-Rosser—Miss Helen Ohlinger, '23, A. B., and Mr. Floyd Rosser, both of Nelsonville, O., were married Tuesday, October 6, 1926, at St. Andrew's rectory in their home city. The first year following graduation from Ohio University Miss Ohlinger taught in the Jacksonville, O., high school and for the past two years has been an instructor in History in Nelsonville High School. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta.

Mr. Rosser attended Notre Dame University. He is employed in the auditing department of the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit.

Merger-Leighty—Announcement was made late in June of the marriage of Miss Thelma Mercer, '27-ex, Weirton, W. Va., and Mr. Harold Leighty, '26, A. B., West Carrollton, O. The wedding took place on June 3, 1926, at Marietta. Mr. Leighty is a member of Tau Sigma Delta and last year was student director of Ohio's big band. He is now an instructor in Spanish and Music in Magnolia High School, New Martinsville, W. Va.

Wilson-Webber—Miss Kathryn M. Wilson, Greenfield, O., and Mr. Robert G. Webber, '13, B. S., Gloucester, O., were united in marriage, Aug. 15, 1926, at the Concord Presbyterian Church, near Chillicothe, O. Mr. Webber is the cashier of the First National Bank of Gloucester and president of the local Kiwanis Club.

Williams-Willis—No, sir! Fooled again. Another Williams this time. Miss Sarah Williams, '23, A. B., Gloucester, O., and Mr. H. L. Willis were married Jan. 2, 1925, and for the greater part of the meantime have been residing in New York City.

Hall-Eaton—One of those three principal events that are supposed to have considerable significance in the lives of all of us occurred June 9, 1926, when Miss Thelma Hall, Athalia, O., and Mr. Roswell Eaton were married at Ironton, Ohio. The groom is an Ohio State man while the bride is a member of the 1924 class of Ohio University with the A. B. degree. During her senior year Mrs. Eaton was a student assistant in the department of English. She is a member of Alpha Iota Pi. The new home has been established at Proctorville, O., where Mrs. Eaton will continue to teach English and French in the Rome Rural High School.

Orr-Swigart—Miss Esther Elizabeth Orr, '15, Home Ec., of Kansas City, became the bride of Mr. Edward C. Swigart, Sept. 18, 1926, at Kansas City, Mo. The young couple is at home at 901 Linwood Blvd., Kansas City.

Murphy-Woodruff—During the summer the news came to Athens of the marriage, May 17, 1926, of Miss Kathleen Murphy, Norfolk, Va., and Mr. Theodore Woodruff, '25, A. B., Hemlock, O. The romance began in Fredericksburg, Va., where the bride was a student in the University of Fredericksburg and the groom a coach in the local high school. Ted is a member of Sigma Pi and a Varsity "O" man.

Hill-Connett—The First Christian Church, Marietta, O., was the scene of a happy wedding, Sept. 7, 1926, when the nuptial service was read to Miss Irma Hill, '25, A. B., Vincent, O., and Mr. Raymond W. Connett, ex, Athens, O., and the vows exchanged.

For the past year the bride has held a scholarship in Psychology at Clark University, Worcester, Mass. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma. In addition to studies at Ohio University the bridegroom has studied in the Innes School of Music, Chicago, and the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta. Mr. and Mrs. Connett are now at home in Topeka, Kansas, where the former is supervisor of instrumental music in the public schools.

Riley-Quigley—Miss Ellen Riley, '23, A. B., and Mr. Walter Quigley, Columbus, O., are a bride and groom of Sept. 22, 1926, being principals in a wedding performed at the home of Miss Riley's parents in Nelsonville. Since her graduation in 1923 Miss Riley has taught English and commercial subjects in the high school of her home town. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi.

The groom is a former student of Ohio Wesleyan University and a member of Beta Theta Pi. He is now connected with the Capitol Finance Co. of Columbus.

Gibson-Green—Mr. Arthur Green, ex, Logan, O., and Miss Eileen Frances Gibson, Montrose, Colo., were married July 27, 1926. The marriage was solemnized in the First Congregational Church of Longmont, Colo.

Mrs. Green attended the School of Music of the University of Colorado for two years, majoring in pipe organ. In addition her musical education has been advanced at the University of Michigan and at the Fine Arts College, Syracuse, N. Y. She is a member of Chi Omega.

Mr. Green is a member of the Ohio University chapter of Sigma Pi. He is in business in Logan, O.

Putnam-Shiplett—In the living room of the attractive Colonial home of her parents Miss Susan Putnam, '13, Home Ec., Athens, O., exchanged nuptial vows with Mr. John T. Shiplett, Galesburg, Ill., on Sept. 5, 1926.

After leaving Ohio University Miss Putnam pursued studies at Western Reserve University. She has taught in the schools of Cleveland for several years, the last year doing special work in home economics in that city. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi. Mr. Shiplett is a graduate of the law school of the University of Chicago and a member of Delta Chi. He is associated with Q. R. S. Company of Chicago with headquarters in Cleveland.

Births

(Editor's Note: Now dear friends and readers, what would you do in a case like this? Our own twin brother turns in the following item of news and says, "Get this on the front page of your magazine or I'll shake you out of the family tree." Think of it. Guess we'll charge him the regular advertising rates. But then—but—well—say, you just ought to see little June.)

Williams—Born to Mr. Dwight E. Williams, '22, A. B., and Mrs. Williams (Opal Cooley, '23, B. S. in Ed.) a seven and a half pound daughter, Oct. 12, 1926, at the Sheltering Arms Hospital, Athens, O. The young lady's name is June Eloise. Mrs. Williams is a member of Chi Omega and the baby's mother. Mr. Williams' chief claim to distinction lies in his relationship to June Eloise and to the journalist whose name appears upon the title page of the Ohio Alumnus. In addition it may be said for him that he is an accountant with the Grayson Mfg. Co., Athens, and a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Parrish—This time it's a girl—Martha Ruth—born July 27, 1926, to Mr. Gaillard Parrish, '23, Com., and Mrs. Parrish (Beatrice Roberts, '23, A. B.) of Danville, O. It is their second child. Mr. Parrish is engaged in the wholesale produce business with his father. Alpha Delta Pi-Lambda Chi Alpha.

Murdock—Good news from the Ohio River. An announcement has been received from Ironton, O., of the birth of a son, William Albert, Jr., to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Murdock (Lillian Cronacher, '11, Ph. B.). Mrs. Murdock is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Link—On Sept. 9, 1926, Mr. Wheatley Link, '22-ex, and Mrs. Link (Katherine Alston, '25, A. B.), of Athens, O., announced the birth of a daughter, Sarah Jean. Mr. Link is a member of the outdoor poster advertising firm of Howell and Link. Mrs. Link is a neice of the late President Ellis of Ohio University. Their fraternities are Pi Beta Phi and Phi Delta Theta.

Jewett—Mr. Joseph E. Jewett, '18, A. B., and Mrs. Jewett, Buffalo, N. Y., are the happy parents of a son, Joseph Everett, Jr., born to them on Aug. 27, 1926. Mr. Jewett holds a responsible position as chemical engineer with the National Analine Dye Co. He has lately supervised the erection of a large chemical plant for his company. Mrs. Jewett was Miss Magdalene Christ, of Buffalo, a sister of Mrs. Henry H. Eccles (Eleanor Christ, '20, A. B.).

Dilley—Among the interesting additions to the Ohio University faculty this fall is that of little Miss Augusta Ann Dilley. As yet her duties are very light, being confined entirely to the Registrar's department. In the home precincts, however, all her dictums are said to be heeded. She arrived Oct. 5, 1926, and will spend much of her time with Registrar and Mrs. Frank B. Dilley, Athens.

Fri—In the Times or the World, "New York's finest" always refers to the members of the police department but the phrase has another application when used by Mr. James L. Fri, '19, B. S. in Ed., and Mrs. Fri (Florence Parks, '18, A. B.) of New York City. An eight pound daughter came to them Oct. 3, 1926. She has been named Barbara Jean. Mr. Fri is an associate professor in the School of Business Administration of New York University. This is another Pi Beta Phi and Phi Delta Theta family.

Goddard—Away out in Oklahoma John Rodney Goddard, II, came along on Sept. 5, 1926, to perpetuate the name of Goddard and to be the pride of fond parents, Mr. John R. Goddard, '17, A. B., and Mrs. Goddard, of Healdton, Okla. John R., I, (not a personal pronoun) is production foreman for the Humble Oil and Refg. Co. His fraternity affiliations are with Delta Tau Delta and Torch.

Blackstone—Mr. Harry H. Blackstone, '21, A. B., and Mrs. Blackstone (Eileen Loffer '24-ex), say that Robert Marion, born Aug. 11, 1926, will be "a candidate for the Ohio University football team of 1945 and a future subscriber to the Ohio Alumnus." Long live the child. Let him be trained in such worthy directions—particularly in the latter. Mr. Blackstone is an accountant with the Knight, Norris, Gibbs Co. of Cleveland.

Sharp—The birth certificate of Craig Bedell Sharp was dated Sept. 23, 1926, and recorded in Athens, O. The party named is the son of Mr. Edward Sharp, '27-ex, and Mrs. Sharp (Angella Woods, '26, A. B.). Mr. Sharp is at present teaching in the schools of Marietta, O. Mrs. Sharp was president of the Woman's League of Ohio University in 1925-26. Mr. Sharp is a Theta Delta Psi from Ohio Wesleyan while Mrs. Sharp holds membership in Zeta Tau Alpha on the Ohio campus.

Deaths

Lawrence—Miss Grace Lawrence, '21, A. B., '23, Art. Supv., passed away on Aug. 6, 1926, in a hospital in Chicago, Ill., where she had undergone an operation for appendicitis three days previously. Death resulted from peritonitis. She was in Chicago for the summer pursuing graduate studies in art at the University of Chicago.

Miss Lawrence was a native of Athens and a descendant of two of the oldest local families, her great-aunt, Miss Margaret Boyd, being the first woman graduate of Ohio University.

Both the A. B. degree and the diploma in Art Supervision were received by Miss Lawrence from her Alma Mater. For the two years prior to her death she had been an art supervisor in the Warren, O., schools but had resigned her position to accept a more responsible position as head of the Art department of the Beckley, W. Va., schools. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi. Burial was made in Athens, O.
